

RPR Financial Solutions Contingent Worker Policy v2.8

RPR Financial Solutions | Procurement & Contingent Workforce Team

WHO IS A CONTINGENT WORKER

A contingent worker is any individual engaged by RPR Financial Solutions on a non-permanent basis including: independent contractors, agency-supplied temporary workers, statement-of-work consultants, and interns.

Contingent workers are not RPR Financial Solutions employees. They do not receive employee benefits, are not eligible for performance bonuses, and are not covered by RPR Financial Solutions's employment policies.

SYSTEM ACCESS AND CREDENTIALS

Contingent workers receive Workday system access only after their profile has been successfully provisioned via the Fieldglass-Workday integration.

Access is limited to systems required for their specific role as defined in the Fieldglass requisition.

Workday credentials are automatically deactivated when the Fieldglass engagement is closed.

Contingent workers must not share credentials or access RPR Financial Solutions systems after their engagement has ended.

DATA PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

All contingent workers must sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement before commencing work.

Contingent workers may not remove RPR Financial Solutions confidential data from company systems without written approval.

Data handling must comply with RPR Financial Solutions's Information Security Policy and applicable privacy regulations (PIPEDA, GDPR where applicable).

CONDUCT AND COMPLIANCE

Contingent workers are expected to comply with RPR Financial Solutions's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics.

Any suspected compliance violation must be reported to the hiring manager or the Ethics Hotline.

RPR Financial Solutions reserves the right to terminate a contingent worker engagement immediately for conduct violations without notice.

REHIRE OF PREVIOUS CONTINGENT WORKERS

A previous contingent worker may be re-engaged subject to a 30-day cooling-off period after the end of their last engagement.

Re-engagement requires a new Fieldglass requisition and fresh approvals — previous approvals cannot be reused.

Workers who were terminated for cause are not eligible for re-engagement without CHRO approval.
